Sir:

In response to the Interview Summary dated March 17, 2008 in the above-identified patent application, applicants have the following comments:

The Interview Summary indicates that the "Applicant reported the three separate regions, two on one page and the third on a second page, occurring during the same session were critical to the operation of the invention.” The applicants respectfully submit that this statement is not accurate.

As was discussed during the Interview, the features described in the Interview Summary are recited in some of the claims presented in the Seventh Amendment dated March 21, 2008 (the “Seventh Amendment”), including claims 32, 65, 66 and 80, for example. However, not all of the pending claims require the “three separate regions, two on one page and the third on a second page” described in the Interview Summary. For example, independent amended claim 1 does not require a “second page.”

The features described in the Interview Summary were not discussed during the Interview with respect to claim 1 and certain other claims. Those other claims contain other patentable limitations, as set forth in the Seventh Amendment.

Respectfully submitted,
Kaye Scholer LLP
